

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

Aesthetic Medical Educators Training Introduces Sensible Weight Loss Training Seminar

Austin, TX - December 10, 2008 Aesthetic Medical Educators Training announced the addition of its newest aesthetic medical training seminar, Sensible Weight Loss. Sensible Weight Loss provides medical professionals with the tools necessary to create customizable weight loss programs.

Through an intensive 2-day training session, medical professionals will learn:

- What constitutes objective weight loss measurements
- How to correctly assess clients and his/her individual needs
- How to monitor, modify and measure the weight loss plan
- To understand the psychology and behavioral problems associated with weight loss

The addition of the Sensible Weight Loss seminar provides medical professionals the opportunity to become more active in their client's quest to become healthy. Many times medical professionals advise their clients to loose weight, but are unable to give clients the tools necessary for successful and healthy weight loss. The Sensible Weight Loss training seminar provides medical professionals with information on how to guide their client through a successful and healthy weight loss program designed to become a way of life, not just a diet or exercise program.

"We are excited to offer a simple, yet sensible weight-loss seminar designed specifically for medical professionals," said Dr. Mike Van Thielen, seminar instructor, Aesthetic Medical Educators Training. "The program is based on a complete body composition analysis as well as blood chemistry, and is customized to the client's needs. Most of all, long-term results are achieved and compliance issues are effectively managed." Dr. Van Thielen concludes: "While really helping your patients obtain their goals and preventing disease, medical professionals will also see a drastic boost in income, a must for every physician and health care professional."
